Day 4: St. Anne - Praslin

Directly after breakfast your trip continues to Praslin. The Vallée de Mai is easily the highlight of your day. The palm trees there are imposing with their maximum height of 30m and 400 years of age. Afterwards, today's goal is Anse Lazio, in the North of Praslin. The beach here is known as one of the most beautiful beaches in the world.

Day 5: Praslin - La Digue

Sailing to La Digue in the morning. This picture-book island will impress you with its white sandy beaches and granite rocks. You should explore the island with a bike or traditionally with a taxi, which will be a bullock-carriage in this case. Cars are very rare.

Visit the coconut fabric in which you'll learn interesting facts about the contemporary advantage of coconuts in commerce. This farm was bought in the 70er from the German Herbert Mittermayer and is still used for kopra-fabrication. The coconut and its products have been the most important export good for the Seychells in the past. The kopra from the pulp is high in vitamins, mineral and micronutrients.

You'll find it in the cosmetics industry or in your food as a flavour enhancer. Not far from here you'll find the antique "House of Emmanuelle", on which the correspondent movie was filmed. Watch out for the huge tortoises and enjoy the pictorial beach of "Source d'Argent". Make sure that you do not miss the often photographed "yellow house" during your stay in La Passe, which is said to be one of the most attractive buildings in the archipelago. You will be amazed by the breathtaking sight of Anse Source d'Argent in the evening, around one hour prior dawn, when the light gives the captivating scenery a magical illumination.

Day 6: Coco - Curieuse

Today you will sail to the island Coco, which is a "must" especially for enthusiastic snorkelers. Coco, is the perfect little pirate island with bouffant granite rocks, a small beach, palm trees and cristal clear water with immense coloured shoals. Next is Curieuse, named after the schooner of the French East Indies company, which had been sent to Mauritius in 1768. The island lies around 2km in the north of Praslin. A short briefing about the "traffic rules" follows, because one has to learn that riding on the back of the huge tortoises is not allowed, as well as other information which as a fair guest one will be knowing already. In the southwest one can find the doctors house, which originates from the time in which Curieuse was still working as a leprosy colony. It now entails a small museum. On the island one can observe free running huge tortoises. The beach in the southeast and the bizzarre arris granitic rocks are worth a side trip.

Day 7: Curieuse - Grand Soeur Island - Félicité

In the morning you sail to "Grand Soeur Island". After a delicious barbecue you can explore the island by foot or you can go swimming. The almost circular island Cousin is around 29 ha big and a shelter for many endangered birds. The island was bought by a council for bird conservation in 1968, and with the help of World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF) became the beautiful nature reserve it is now.

Observe countless brooding birds in the trees closely. Visit this bird paradise in which you can find five kinds of birds which are only present in the Seychelles. Afterwards you sail back to Mahé. Your Yacht will be at anchor in Beau Vallon.

Numerous kinds of watersport activities are offered at this admirable beach.

Day 10: Mahé

In the morning the island Theresa is on the programme. However, you can also stop by the small capital Victoria instead. Here you'll find a little market. This market is well-known for it's fresh fish and local fruits. The smell here will overwhelm you because of the many different spices and brightly coloured flowers everywhere. This sensual memory will accompany you for the days to come. In the evening everyone meets at the VPM base in Roche Caiman, where the collective dinner closes up the impressive sailing cruise. Night stay in La Cascade.

Day 11:

In the early morning we unfortunately have to say good bye after the check out in the Eden Island Marina. Transfer to the airport or hotel.
